

The 2019 National University Students Summer Camp in University of the Chinese Academy of Sciences (National Science Library) is Opening.

On July 9, 2019, the 2019 national excellent college students summer camp was opened, there were 62 campers gathered in the academician hall of National Science Library, Chinese Academy of Science for an unforgettable trip.

The opening ceremony was presided over by professor Chu Jingli and director of the Library Liu Huizhou made a speech to express the warmest welcome to the 62 campers. Liu provided an overview of National Science Library and hoped students could have a good time in this camp.

In order to provide more information for campers to know every research direction, six mentors with different research direction were invited to give keynote speeches, which include Quality of Postgraduate Education of the Library, Practice and Trend of Library Science Research(director and PhD supervisor Chu Jingli), Practice and Trend of Informatics Research(vice director and PhD supervisor Liu Xiwen),Intelligence Information Methods and Technologies(Lv Lucheng), Scientometrics(Postgraduate supervisor Li Zexia), Big Data Intelligence Analysis Methods and Technologies(Postgraduate supervisor Qian Li), User Research and Information Services(Postgraduate supervisor Gu Liping), Science and Technology Editing and Communication(Postgraduate supervisor Weng Yanqin).

After the reports, Zhang Zhang, teacher of graduate education, organized students to communicate with the mentors face to face and made a final decision for their research direction in the period of postgraduate.

In the evening, the seniors shared their life at Yanqi Lake and work experience and feeling.

