Zhao Yan, female, She graduated from the School of Economics and Management of Beijing University of Technology in 2003 with a master's degree. And she studied at Yale University Medical Library, USA as visiting Scholar at February-August 2008. She is currently a deputy research librarian, assistant director, chief resource officer of the National Science Library, director of the Key Laboratory of Technology and Standards for Journalism and Publication of Dynamic Semantic Publishing and Knowledge Services in Academic Journals. She is also a member of the Interview and Resource Construction Committee of IFLA, a member of the Resources Construction and Sharing Committee of the Chinese Library Society, and a member of the IFLA International Leadership Program 2016-2018, a member of the OA2020 Advisory Committee, and an executive editor of Data Intelligence.

Now she is mainly engaged in the construction of commercial resources, open resources and institutional repository. Since 2006, she has been responsible for the procurement of digital resources group of more than 120 research institutes of the Chinese Academy of Sciences. Shee has led the team to establish a management process and management platform covering the life cycle of digital resources, and has been engaged in the research and practice of long-term preservation of national scientific and technological digital resources, open publication of SCOAP3 and open publishing conversion of OA2020.

In the past five years, she has completed more than 10 scientific research projects of the Ministry of science and Technology (NSTL) and the Chinese Academy of Sciences, published more than 10 papers and participated in the compilation of 2 books.

From 2016 to 2018, as the head of the project "Distributed Big Data Knowledge Resource System and Service Construction" which is the special project of   document and intelligence capacity-building   of the Chinese Academy of Sciences, relying on the featured scientific and technological resources of the Institute and the scientific and technological resources of the professional field, she have built several characteristic knowledge resource centers and domain knowledge resource centers, and formed a implementation plan and organization management mechanism of distributed big data knowledge resource system .

The research direction is the construction and management of information resources, involving the theory and method of information resource construction and management under the environment of digitalization, networking and open knowledge service. The application of new technologies, new methods and new ideas in the construction and management of library information resources, digital resource life cycle management and the collection, creation, integration, organization, management and service of open system, such as open resources and institutional repository.

E-mail:zhaoyan@mail.las.ac.cn