Wu Yuewei: female, graduated from the library department of Wuhan University in 1983, research librarian, director of information service department of Wuhan Library, Chinese Academy of Sciences, member of resource construction committee and reader working committee of Hubei library society, visiting scholar of library of Ohio University in 1999. She has been engaged in literature resources construction, information resources organization, reference consulting services, user information literacy education, user information needs and information behavior in the digital environment, new service model and other related research for a long time. Currently she is mainly engaged in disciplinization service and subject librarians work and research, explores the user-oriented disciplinization, better educated and personalized service pattern and service performance evaluation theories and methods, focus on scientific research oriented user organizations, professional information acquisition, characteristic resource construction, knowledge-based service organization, subject intelligence analysis, competitive analysis of scientific research institutions, personalized information environment construction and so on. And she has participated in the project research of Chinese Academy of Sciences: _national periodical joint catalogue_ and "rational layout of literature resources of Chinese Academy of Sciences", and won the second prize of scientific and technological progress award of Chinese Academy of Sciences twice; In recent years, she has participated in the national social science foundation project "research on the theory and method of library embedded subject service", and the digital library construction project of Chinese Academy of Sciences: _Knowledge service integration of key technology research_, _the domain knowledge of environmental construction_, _open information literacy education platform_, _knowledge of the digital resources environment open group engine system_ , _the research of digital archive information service system_, _the important meeting open acquisition and service system_, _suffused with embedded in the individual research platform_, and other new service project pilot user research and application, published more than 10 papers and participation in _the library management_, _the theory and method of embedded subject service of library_ .

This research direction mainly focuses on the impact of environmental changes caused by information technology change on library services, the change mechanism of user information needs and information services under the new situation, the user research method under the new situation, and the construction of library information service system. The system includes user information environment, user information needs, user information behavior and its changing rules. This research direction mainly explores the user organization and information service mode under the new situation, focuses on the knowledge service organization, service mechanism and service mode; This research direction combines theory and practice closely.

E-mails: wuyw@mail.whlib.ac.cn